WASHINGTON, Tuesday, April 11.

The executive departments, including the President's mansion, were again illuminated to-night and adorned with transparencies and national flags, as were also many places of business and private dwellings. Bonfires blazed in many parts of the city and rockets were fired. Thousands of persons of both sexes repaired to the Executive mansion, and after several airs had been played by the band, the President, in response to the numerous calls, appeared at an upper window. The cheering with which he was greeted having ceased, he spoke as follows:

THE PRESIDENT'S SPEECH.

We meet this evening not in sorrow, but in gladness of heart. The evacuation of Petersburgh and Richmond, and the surrender of the principal insurgent army, give hopes of a righteous and speedy peace, whose joyous expression cannot be restrained. In the midst of this, however, He from whom all blessings flow must not be forgotten. A call for a national thanksgiving is being prepared, and will be duly promulgated. Nor must those whose harder part gives us the cause of rejoicing be overlooked. Their honors must not be parceled out with others. I myself was near the front, and had the high pleasure of transmitting much of the good news to you. But no part of the honor for plan or execution is mine. To Gen. GRANT, his skillful officers and brave men, all belongs. The gallant navy stood ready, but was not in reach to take active part. By these recent successes the reinauguration of the national authority—reconstruction, which has had a large share of thought from the first—is pressed much more closely upon our attention. It is fraught with great difficulty. Unlike a war between independent nations, there is no authorized organ for us to treat with. No one man has authority to give up the rebellion for any other man. We must simply begin with and mould from disorganized and discordant elements. Nor is it a small additional embarrassment that we, the loyal people, differ among ourselves as to the mode, manner and measure of reconstruction. As a general rule, I abstain from reading the reports of attacks upon myself, wishing not to be provoked by that to which I cannot properly offer an answer. In spite of this precaution, however, it comes to my knowledge that I am much censured for some supposed agency in setting up and seeking to sustain the new State Government of Louisiana. In this I have done just so much and no more than the public knows. In the annual message of December, 1863, and the accompanying proclamation, I presented a plan of reconstruction, as the phrase goes, which I promised, if adopted by any State, would be acceptable to and sustained by the Executive Government of the nation. I distinctly stated that this was not the only plan which might, possibly, be acceptable; and I also distinctly protested that the Executive claimed no right to say when or whether members should be admitted to seats in Congress from such States. This plan was in advance submitted to the then cabinet, and approved by every member of it. One of them suggested that I should then and in that connection apply the Emancipation Proclamation to the theretofore excepted parts of Virginia and Louisiana, that I should drop the suggestion about apprenticeship for freed people, and that I should omit the protest against my own power in regard to the admission of members of Congress. But even he approved every part and parcel of the plan which has since been employed or touched by the action of Louisiana. The new constitution of Louisiana, declaring emancipation for the whole State, practically applies the proclamation to the part previously excepted. It does not adopt apprenticeship for freed people, and is silent, as it could not well be otherwise, about the admission of members to Congress. So that as it applied to Louisiana every member of the Cabinet fully approved the plan. The message went to Congress, and I received many commendations of the plan, written and verbal, and not a single objection to it, from any professed emancipationist, came to my knowledge until after the news reached Washington that the people of Louisana had begun to move in accordance with it. From about July, 1862, I had corresponded with different persons supposed to be interested in seeking a reconstruction of a State government for Louisiana. When the message of 1863, with the plan before mentioned, reached New-Orleans, Gen. BANKS wrote me that he was confident that the people, with his military cooperation, would reconstruct substantially on that plan. I wrote to him and some of them to try it. They tried it, and the result is known. Such has been my only agency in getting up the Louisiana government. As to sustaining it, my promise is out, as before stated. But as bad promises are better broken than kept, I shall treat this as a bad promise and break it whenever I shall be convinced that keeping it is adverse to the public interest, but I have not yet been so convinced.

I have been shown a letter on this subject, supposed to be an able one, in which the writer expresses regret that my mind has not seemed to be definitely fixed on the question, whether the seceded States, so called, are in the Union or out of it. It would, perhaps, add astonishment to his regret were he to learn that since I have found professed Union men endeavoring to answer that question I have purposely forborne any public expression upon it. As appears to me, that question has not been, nor yet is a practically material one, and that any discussion of it while it thus remains practically immaterial, could have no effect other than the mischievous one of dividing our friends. As yet, whatever it may become, that question is bad as the basis of a controversy, and good for nothing at all—a merely pernicious abstraction. We all agree that the seceded States, so called, are out of their proper practical relation with the Union, and that the sole object of the government, civil and military, in regard to those States, is to again get them into their proper practical relation. I believe that it is not only possible, but, in fact, easier, to do this without deciding, or even considering, whether those States have ever been out of the Union, than with it. Finding themselves safely at home, it would be utterly immaterial whether they had been abroad. Let us all join in doing the acts necessary to restore the proper practical relations between these States and the nation, and each forever after innocently indulge his own opinion whether in doing the acts he brought the States from without into the Union, or only gave them proper assistance, they never having been out of it. The amount of consistency, so to speak, on which the Louisiana Government rests, would be more satisfactory to all if it contained 50,000, or 30,000, or even 20,000, instead of 12,000, as it does. It is also unsatisfactory to some that the elective franchise is not given to the colored man. I would myself prefer that it were now conferred on the very intelligent, and on those who serve our cause as soldiers. Still the question is not whether the Louisiana government, as it stands, is quite all that is desirable. The question is, will it be wiser to take it as it is, and help to improve it, or to reject and disperse? Can Louisiana be brought into proper practical relation with the Union sooner by sustaining or by discarding her new State government? Some twelve thousand voters in the heretofore slave State of Louisiana have sworn allegiance to the Union, assumed to be the rightful political power of the State, held elections, organized a State government, adopted a Free State constitution, giving the benefit of public schools equally to black and white, and empowering the Legislature to confer the elective franchise upon the colored man. This Legislature has already voted to ratify the constitutional amendment recently passed by Congress, abolishing slavery throughout the nation. These twelve thousand persons are thus fully committed to the Union and to perpetuate freedom in the State; committed to the very things, and nearly all things, the nation wants, and they ask the nation's recognition and its assistance to make good this committal. Now if we reject and spurn them we do our utmost to disorganize and disperse them. We in fact say to the white man, you are worthless or worse; we will neither help you, nor be helped by you. To the blacks, we say: This cup of liberty which these, your old masters, held to your lips, we will dash from you, and leave you to the chances of gathering the spilled and scattered contents in some vague and undefined when, where and how. If this course, discouraging and paralizing both white and black, has any tendency to bring Louisiana into proper practical relations with the Union, I have so far been unable to perceive it. If, on the contrary, we recognize and sustain the new government of Louisiana, the converse of all this is made true. We encourage the hearts and nerve the arms of 12,000 to adhere to their work, and argue for it, and proselyte for it, and fight for it, and feed it, and grow it, and ripen it to a complete success. The colored man, too, in seeing all united for him, is inspired with vigilance, and energy, and daring to the same end. Grant that he desires the elective franchise, will he not attain it sooner by saving the already advanced steps toward it, than by running backward over them? Concede that the new government of Louisiana is to what it should be as the egg is to the fowl, we shall sooner have the fowl by hatching the egg, than by smashing it. [Laughter.] Again, if we reject Louisiana we also reject one vote in favor of the proposed amendment to the national constitution. To meet this proposition it has been argued that no more than three-fourths of those States which have not attempted secession are necessary to validly ratify the amendment. I do not commit myself against this further than to say that such a ratification would be questionable, and sure to be persistently questioned, while a ratification by three-fourths of all the States would be unquestioned and unquestionable. I repeat the question. Can Louisiana be brought into proper practical relation with the Union sooner by sustaining, or by discarding her new State Government? What has been said of Louisiana will apply to other States. And yet so great peculiarities pertain to each State, and such important and sudden changes occur in the same State, and withal so new and unprecedented is the whole case, that no exclusive and inflexible plan can safely be prescribed as to details and collaterals. Such exclusive and inflexible plan would surely become a new entanglement. Important principles may and must be inflexible. In the present situation, as the phrase goes, it may be my duty to make some new announcement to the people of the South. I am considering and shall not fail to act when satisfied that action will be proper.

The President, during the delivery of the above speech, was frequently interrupted by applause, and on its conclusion, in the midst of the cheering, the band struck up a patriotic air, when he bowed and retired.

There were repeated calls for Senator SHERMAN, but he was not present. Senator HARLAN, of Iowa, was then called for, and after the applause had subsided, he directed attention to two principles settled or to be settled by the closing contest. First, the American people had decided that the majority of the voters of the Republic should control its destinies and the incipient process of making its laws. Second, that no part of the Republic should ever be permitted by force to divide it. The punishment of traitors lay in the hands of Congress; and the Constitution pointed out clearly what constituted treason. Those who hatched the treason should suffer the penalty; and under Congress, he was willing to trust the future in the hands of the citizens elected a second time to see the laws faithfully executed.

Senator HARLAN'S remarks were applauded.

The assemblage dispersed after vociferous huzzahs and the performance by the band. A larger and more enthusiastic meeting has seldom if ever been held in front of the Executive mansion.

The Virginia State Government—No Recognition of the Rebel Legislature—Interview of Gov. Pierpont with the President.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, April 11.

The Star, of this afternoon, says:

In order to put a stop to the absurd canard afloat, in regard to the proposition of the President to recognize the rebel Legislature of Virginia, we are enabled to state, that early on yesterday the President telegraphed to Gov. PIERPONT to come at once to Washington, where a long conference was held between them, the object of which was to perfect the plan for the restoration of Gov. PIERPONT'S government at Richmond.

OUR RICHMOND CORRESPONDENCE.

Reconstruction—No Recognition of the Rebel State Legislature—What the President Really Said to Judge Campbell—Position of Mr. Winder—Arrest of Mr. Pollard.

From Our Own Correspondent.

SPOTSWOOD HOUSE, RICHMOND, Va., Saturday, April 8, 1865.

I stated in my letter yesterday that Judge CAMPBELL had in his possession a document written, but not signed, by Mr. LINCOLN, to the effect that the President would permit the return hither of Gov SMITH and the rebel Legislature of Virginia, for the purpose of conferring and deciding upon the destiny of Virginia.

That was the version given of the document by Judge CAMPBELL and his friends. I did not believe that any such thing was promised, and should have said so, but I closed my letter in too great haste to enlarge upon the subject, especially as my information was limited. To-day I have still more reason to believe that Mr. LINCOLN did not in any way, during his conference with Judge CAMPBELL on the River Queen, on Tuesday, say anything which would imply a recognition of Gov. SMITH and his Legislature, but simply enunciated the same principles that he laid down to the same gentleman at the Hampton Roads conference, viz.: That he would deal with the people of Virginia on the basis of his former proclamations and declarations, that on minor points very liberal terms would be extended, and that a safe conduct would be given to any leading persons who desired to confer at Richmond or elsewhere upon the restoration of Virginia to the Union, and permission might also be given to a delegation to proceed through our lines to present these terms to Gov. SMITH, the Legislature, or anyone else. This is an authentic version of it as it comes from our side; but there is a wide discrepancy between this and the statement made by Judge CAMPBELL at the informal gathering in the WAR building, yesterday, and it should be understood that the few gentlemen of whom Judge CAMPBELL is the spokesman at present, are not the representatives of the thorough genuine Union element which exists here, and which, from the steadfast manner with which it has borne itself throughout the war, deserves to be listened to. The gentlemen who composed the meeting yesterday are those who have been most active in the secession ranks in this city—J. A. CAMPBELL, late Assistant Secretary of War; Jos. MAYO, Mayor of Richmond, who not long since declared that the city should not be surrendered while one brick remained on another; Jos. R. ANDERSON, proprietor of the Tredegar Iron Works, a man who has done immense service to the rebellion; and others of that class. It is not to be denied that it is gratifying to see these men acknowledge the hopelessness of their cause; but it will be decidedly unjust if such men are listened to with favor while men like JOHN MINOR BOTTS are unheard. And this very prompt movement by these men, though probably sincere, is not above the suspicion of being intended to exact from the President, by an appearance of readiness for reunion, terms that may be decidedly unacceptable to the truly loyal people here, who in numbers are far greater than is generally believed at the North.

This question of reconstruction in Virginia is likely to prove a very difficult and perhaps embarrassing one before all the points are settled, and there is not that haste about it indicated by the early movement headed by Judge CAMPBELL. Gen. GRANT has done a great deal toward it within the past ten days, and is adding to it every hour. I learn to-night that a special escort has been sent into the interior to bring in R. M. T. HUNTER, member of the Richmond Senate, and Gen. W. C. WICKHAM, who represents the Richmond district in the rebel House of Representatives. How HUNTER feels I know not, but I learn, on undoubted authority, that Gen. WICKHAM is favorably disposed toward the Union cause; that he favors Virginia's immediate return to the Union on the basis of the abolition of slavery, and is most highly esteemed by the loyal men of his district. He opposed secession to the last, and though he has held a commission in the army, his heart was never in his work. A year and a half ago he was prevailed upon to be a candidate for Congress against JAMES LYONS, a notorious Secessionist, and was elected by an immense majority, without an effort, simply because of his well-known conservative views. As a member of that Congress, his action has been, as is well known at the North, more of a negative character than otherwise, and only a short time before the adjournment of that body he was denounced by bot-headed rebels as a reconstructionist.

The meeting held yesterday, and heretofore alluded to, took no action, except to appoint four commissioners to proceed through our lines with the terms offered by Mr. LINCOLN, and tender them to Gov. SMITH and the Legislature. These men are JAS. R. ANDERSON, DAVID J. BURR, NATHANIEL P. TYLER and H. W. THOMAS.

Judge CAMPBELL was authorized to accompany them, and they are to leave as soon as they can obtain their passes—probably to-morrow. They will have to travel fast to overtake the fugacious Governor and his companions. I trust the readers of the TIMES will not take these statements in regard to this reconstruction as the mere rationcinations of a letter-writer.

The facts as given are the most reliable that can be ascertained, and my sources of information are daily becoming enlarged.

Among the important events of the day was the arrest of the notorious EDWARD A. POLLARD, and his brother, H. E. POLLARD, both lately connected with the Examiner. E. A. POLLARD has been on his parole, stopping at the Spotswood House, and for the last few days has put on a very bold front, and talked rather defiantly.

To-day, therefore, Col. CORNELIN, Assistant Provost-Marshal, ordered his arrest, and when the guard was told to escort the gentleman to Castle Thunder, POLLARD felt chagrined and enraged, and began to protest. But protesting was of no avail, and he was allowed to take all the clothing, &c., that he required, and invited to make himself comfortable.

The presence of POLLARD here upon the street in public has been revolting to loyal feelings, especially as it is well known that his conduct and utterances since his return from the North, where he received the most liberal treatment, have been more bitter toward the Union cause than ever before. There are about three thousand copies of the third volume of his Southern history of the war in the hands of the military authorities here. The Sentinel printing establishment, together with the rebel government printing-office attached to it, have been taken possession of by the military authorities, and all efforts to get hold of the concern made by newspaper shysters will fail.

The office will be held for the purpose of reëstablishing an able first-class daily paper, under control of leading, loyal and wealthy Virginians.

Richmond just now is not the centre of news from the front. Whatever we get comes by way of Petersburgh and City Point, and reaches you by telegraph about as soon as it reaches us. But the news of the capture by SHERIDAN of six general officers and ten thousand prisoners, renews the feeling of joy prevalent everywhere. These troops were those which defended the lines around Richmond, and had been unable to effect a junction with LEE.

Many of the distinguished visitors have departed, but many others are arriving. Hon. WM. WHITING, late Solicitor of the War Department, and several Members of Congress, are here.

It is expected that the churches will be open to-morrow, and it is understood that permission has been given by the military authorities to the Episcopal divines to omit the prayer for the President of the United States. They will probably do so without permission or not.

First Sunday of Union Occupation—Services in the Churches—Distress for Food and Clothing—Union Feeling in the City.

From Our Own Correspondent.

RICHMOND, Sunday Evening, April 9, 1865.

This is the first Sunday of Union occupation, and if we are to take the churches for a criterion, the presence of an immense armed military force would not be known. Every church in the city, save the two consumed by the fire, was open, and service held as usual. But two of the clergymen of the city have fled from their pulpits—Rev. MOSES D. HOGE, of the First Presbyterian, and Rev. Dr. DUNCAN, of the Methodist Church. These two, however, were counted the ablest divines in the city—Dr. DUNCAN, especially, being noted for his power and eloquence. Services were held in all the Episcopal Churches—Grace, St. Paul's, St. James', and the Monumental. A very large congregation assembled at St. Paul's, where JEFF. DAVIS worshiped, many officers being among them. Rev. Dr. MINNIGERODE, the regular pastor, officiated. DAVIS' seat was significantly vacant. I attended the Monumental Church, on Broad-street, Rev. Mr. WOODBRIDGE officiating. This is a very old, but substantial stone edifice, of the Egyptian style of architecture. The music here, I had heard, would be very fine, and I was not disappointed, the organ being a very superior instrument and well played, while the choir, though not full, sang with excellent effect, the soprano voice being one of the finest I ever heard. The congregation was not very large, and not more than half a dozen officers and soldiers were present. By general consultation, I suppose, all the Episcopal clergymen had agreed upon the omission of the "prayer for the President of the United States, and when the reverend gentleman reached that point he omitted the words "Bless thy servant, the President of the United States, and all others in authority," and substituted the words, "Bless all in authority," though the change was not effected without stumbling over it rather awkwardly.

In other churches the ministers generally prayed for "all those in rightful authority," or for "all Christian rulers and magistrates," except at the famous African Church, where the President of the United States was prayed for with Amens that made the very walls ring.

Rev. Mr. READ, whose church was burned, preached at the church of Rev. Dr. HOGE, who summarily absented himself about the time of the evacuation. The two congregations (Presbyterian) will worship together hereafter. Rev. Mr. MOORE, of the Third Presbyterian Church, preached a very excellent sermon, and gave notice of his coöperation with the Christian Commission in alleviating the wants of the distressed. There were many affecting scenes in the different churches when passages of peculiar appropriateness were read or sung, many an eye being dimmed with the tears of uncontrollable grief.

Richmond is very well supplied with churches of all denominations, the Catholics being well represented, having one of the finest edifices and best music in the city. The evening services, owing to the want of gas, are held at 4:30 o'clock.

The task of providing for those in want is becoming a very great one, and will render necessary a call upon the people of the North for the same service that was so freely tendered at Savannah. The Government is now issuing rations to an average of six thousand persons per day. The plan by which the needy are supplied is as follows; Mr. W. P. MUNFORD, President of the Richmond Relief Association, and Mr. JOHN ENDES, together with Col. CLAFF, of the Union forces, are appointed a committee to report upon all applications for food. This they do upon the personal investigation and reports of the visitors appointed in each one of the thirty districts into which the city is divided. Upon the certificates granted by this board subsistence stores are issued by the Government, four large buildings being now occupied by the issuing Commissaries. This is a great tax, and the Government cannot continue it a very long time—the noble North will have to come to its aid. The distress is not alone for food; clothing and shelter are also much needed. The great fire rendered houseless hundreds of poor families who occupied parts of buildings in the business part of the city. The Christian and Sanitary Commissions are aiding in the work most benevolently, but alone they are not equal to the task. Contributions of clothing are very much wanted, and the givers will be greatly blessed, for the distress is chiefly among that portion of the people who are strongest for the Union. Let the great North bestir itself speedily, for here is a work worthy of its noble charity.

The commissioners selected by the private meeting of citizens, on Friday, left to-day with passes to to go through our lines to try and reach Gov. SMITH and the Legislature. It is not believed that "Extra Billy" will consent to come back, though if the news we hear to-night, viz: that Gen. LEE has surrendered his whole army be true, he may be but too anxious to do so. His career as Governor of Virginia, at all events, is over. Gen. WICKHAM arrived in the city to-day. R. M. T. HUNTER has not yet come.

Hon. WM. WHITING, of Boston, is still here, and I have reason to know has been in consultation with a number of the leading Union men of the city to-day. Though Mr. WHITING is not here in an official capacity, the interests of the government and the Union cause suffer no neglect at his hands.

It may be interesting to know that the rebel Congress finally passed the act calling for two millions of dollars in gold or sterling exchange from the banks and people of Virginia. Everybody possessing more than $200 of these valuable commodities was called upon for twenty-five per cent. of the same. Under this act DAVIS obtained about $300,000 from the Richmond banks before the evacuation, and this money he and his associates now have in their possession, for the expenses of their trip to Europe and the ends of the earth. It is not so much as to cause them inconvenience.

The Union feeling in the city is developing with great rapidity. The conduct of the troops is superb. Property is perfectly safe, and everything is as quiet as could be desired. In one of my former letters, I believe, I stated that all the attachés of the Enquirer had left the city. I since learn that Mr. NATHANIEL P. TYLER, the senior proprietor, remained in the city. He is one of the commissioners who have gone to hunt up the Legislature. POLLARD is still in Castle Thunder, meditating upon the brilliant finale of the Confederacy.

LATER.

TEN P. M.—We are just in receipt of a dispatch from City Point, announcing the surrender of LEE'S entire army upon Gen. GRANT'S conditions, with the remark that the conditions will soon be forwarded. It is no use to say we are happy. We have been happy over good news so long that we are really getting a little blasé. I cannot give you any particulars from Richmond to night, for we do not get them here as soon as you do in New-York. We even read, in the New-York papers of Saturday, to-night, the news of SHERIDAN'S great captures on Friday. Virginia is disenthralled from armed rebellion.

From Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Tuesday, April 11.

Vice-Admiral DAVID G. FARRAGUT, United States Navy, arrived here at 6 o'clock this morning from Fortress Monroe, in the steamer Louisiana, Capt. PORTER, and was received at the wharf by a large detachment of military, ordered out by Gen. W. W. MORRIS, the Mayor and committee, and many citizens.

He was accompanied by his wife and Mrs. Capt. PINCOCK, Miss CURTISS, Miss BUTTRICK and Mrs. Col. LAMB.

Soon as the steamer was announced to be at the wharf, Mayor CHAPMAN proceeded to welcome the Admiral to the city, accompanied by the committees of the two branches.

The procession was then formed and the Admiral was escorted to the Eutaw House, receiving on his way thither enthusiastic greetings from the citizens.

The City Councils give him a public dinner this afternoon. He leaves to-morrow for New-York.

Ferry-Boat Sunk Near Nashville.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Monday, April 11.

The ferry-boat Kentucky, plying between Nashville and Edgarfield, while crossing the Cumberland this afternoon, became unmanageable and drifted against the piers of the railroad bridge. Several persons were slightly injured. The passengers were rescued by the steamer Ben Accord. The Kentucky soon after sank.

The river is at a stand-still. The water on the shoals is four feet deep.

Municipal Election.

TRENTON, Tuesday, April 11.

F. S. MILLS, Democrat, was reelected Mayor by an increased majority. The whole Democratic city ticket elected.

OUR SHIPS OF WAR IN FOREIGN PORTS

A PROCLAMATION BY THE PRESIDENT.

A Demand that the Restrictions on Our War Vessels in Foreign Ports be Removed.

Equality of Rights and Hospitalities to be Claimed and Conceded.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, April 11.

Another important proclamation is issued to-day, claiming that our vessels-of-war in foreign ports shall no longer be subjected to restrictions, as at present, but shall have the same rights and hospitalities which are extended to foreign men-of-war in the ports of the United States, and declaring that hereafter the cruisers of every nation shall receive the treatment which in their ports they accord to ours, as follows:

By the President of the United States of America:

PROCLAMATION.

Whereas, for some time past vessels of war of the United States have been refused in certain ports privileges and immunities to which they were entitled by treaty, public law, or the comity of nations, at the same time that vessels of war of the country wherein the said privileges and immunities have been withheld, have enjoyed them fully and uninterruptedly in the ports of the United States, which condition of things has not always been forcibly resisted by the United States; although, on the other hand, they have not failed to protest against and declare their dissatisfaction with the same. In the view of the United States, no condition any longer exists which can be claimed to justify the denial to them by any one of said nations of the customary naval rights, such as has heretofore been so unnecessarily persisted in; now, therefore, I ABRAHAM LINCOLN, President of the United States, do hereby make known that, if, after a reasonable time shall have elapsed for the intelligence of this proclamation to have reached any foreign country in whose ports the said privileges and immunities shall have been refused, as aforesaid, they shall continue to be so refused, then and thenceforth the same privileges and immunities shall be refused to the vessels of war of the country in the ports of the United States, and this refusal shall continue until the war vessels of the United States shall have been placed upon an entire equality in the foreign ports aforesaid with similar vessels of other countries. The United States, whatever claim or pretence may have existed heretofore, are now at least entitled to claim and concede an entire and friendly equality of rights and hospitalities with all maritime nations.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the City of Washington, this eleventh day of April, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five, and of the independence of the United States of America the eighty-ninth.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

By the President:

WM. H. SEWARD, Secretary of State.

THE SUMTER CELEBRATION.

The Voyage of the Arago—Perfect Weather and Congenial Company—Pleasant Incidents—Striking Coincidences.

From Our Own Correspondent.

STEAMSHIP ARAGO, OFF FORTRESS MONROE, Sunday Afternoon, April 9, 1865.

The good steamship Arago, whose name is the synonym of comfort to everybody who has voyaged on her, has put into Hampton Roads, to receive on board Secretary STANTON, and other distinguished persons, who join the notable party already on board, on he way to celebrate becomingly the restoration of the national flag over the ruins of Fort Sumter—an event which will become historic, because it is significant of the restoration of the national emblem over the ruined Confederacy. I send these few words to inform the friends of our passengers, who left New-York yesterday, that the trip thus far has been thoroughly enjoyable. The weather has been perfect—calm and moonlight during last night, and scarcely a ripple on the water to-day.

I suppose that you have published a list of the passengers. If so, you will have observed that the company is a more brilliant one than often gets together on shipboard. The military magnates are Gens. Anderson, Dix and Doubleday; Rev. Henry Ward Beecher and Dr. Richard S. Storrs, Jr., represent the clergy; Senator Wilson, Judge Kelley, of Philadelphia; Courtlandt Parker, of New-Jersey, and Mr. Stillwell, of Indiana, Congress. The Abolitionists are represented by Wm. Lloyd Garrison, the veteran apostle of that faith, George Thompson, of England, and Theodore Tilton, of the Independent. West Point sends delegates from her faculty in Profs. Mahan and Davies. There are a score of other gentlemen in the party, nearly as well known to the country. The ladies are not numerously represented. They are far too few in numbers, but the few are a host in themselves.

The tribute from time immemorial exacted by the grim sea-king of those who traverse his dominions has thus far on the trip been uncollected. Instead of passing the time in casting up accounts with his Neptune majesty, the passengers have made merry and rejoiced in each other's society. There have been curious and interesting groups formed among the most prominent of the party. Gen. ANDERSON rehearses to his questioners the history of the few days before the rebels fired upon his starving garrison, and points are brought out which are new to me as well as others of his audience. Mr. BEECHER, against whom heretofore the Neptune's tax-gatherers have had an especial grudge, can regularly take his place at the table and say laughable things for the benefit of his select circle. Mr. GARRISON and GEORGE THOMPSON fight their battles over again to the great edification of those who are not such old and tried soldiers as themselves in the cause of negro emancipation. Judge KELLEY and Senator WILSON discuss the ending of the war in its bearings upon matters of vast import that must soon come before Congress, and so the time has lent itself wings for its flight.

I must not forget to mention that divine service was held on deck this morning by Rev. Dr. STORRS, of the Church of the Pilgrims, Brooklyn. All the passengers attended, and listened attentively to the masterly discourse of the reverend gentleman, whose text was, "And the wrath of men shall praise Him." The sermon, though entirely extempore, was of such a finished character, that it will doubtless find its way into print, a stenographer having fortunately taken it down.

My attention was called to-day to a singular coincidence, which I will hint at for the information of some of your readers. According to the lessons of Scripture prescribed for each day in the Episcopal service, the 3d chapter of Joel was read on the Sunday after the attack on Fort Sumter. In all the churches of that denomination, and how singularly appropriate to the time was the invocation to prepare for war, beginning at the 9th verse. The Sabbath after the fall of Charleston, the lesson for the day was the first chapter of Lamentations, beginning, "How doth the city sit solitary that was full of people; how is she become as a widow," &c., which seems to be perfectly applicable to the present condition of the cradle of secession.

We expect Secretary STANTON on board in a few moments, and shall stop writing to see this important acquisition to our pleasant party. H. J. W.

AFFAIRS IN ALBANY.

Brooklyn City Railroad Consolidation—The Albany Contested Seat Case—The Draft.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

ALBANY, Tuesday, April 11.

The Senate, this evening, listened to an animated debate over the bill allowing any two or more Brooklyn City Railroads to consolidate into a single corporation. Mr. SHAFFER opposed the bill, and a sharp passage at arms occurred between that Senator and Mr. BRADY of Brooklyn, in which personalities were used with great freedom on both sides. The bill was amended so as to provide that it shall not authorize any increase of fare, and was then ordered to a third reading.

The report of the Committee on Privileges and Elections, awarding the seat from the Albany District to JOSEPH SWEET, came up in the Assembly, and was ably argued by Mr. GLEASON, of Suffolk, showing from the testimony of nearly a hundred witnesses that outrageous violence prevailed at the polls, preventing Union men from voting; that scores of the latter were driven away, nine were wounded with knives, and eleven struck with clubs. Efforts to bring the question to a vote were resisted by the Democrats, who declared themselves unable to discuss it to-night, and the subject was finally made the special order for to-morrow evening, at which time O. M. ROSEBOOM will, doubtless, be unseated, after representing a district one hundred days, which the committee will find elected another, man by 286 majority.

Mr. CHEEVER attempted to introduce resolutions calling on the government to stop the draft in this State, but objections were made and they were not considered. PERSIMMON.

THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

SENATE.

ALBANY, Tuesday, April 11.

The report of the Conference Committee on the bill authorizing plank-road and turnpike companies to charge additional fare, was concurred in and the bill passed.

BILLS PASSED.

Providing for the payment of certain extraordinary expenses of Brooklyn.

Incorporating the St. James Benevolent Society of Brooklyn.

Conferring additional powers on the Marshals of New-York.

Relative to the Marine Court of New-York.

Incorporating the Hicksville and Huntington Railroad Company.

For the relief of the Central Park and North and East River Railroad Company.

Mr. DOUGLAS moved to recommit the bill, with instructions to strike out the clause allowing the company to lay tracks in Thirty-third-street.

The motion was carried.

Amending the Registry Law. This bill was passed by a vote of 19 to 11. Mr. HOBBS voted with the Democrats in the negative.

Authorizing County Treasurers to receive taxes.

BILLS REPORTED.

Relative to the powers and duties of the Captain of the Port of New-York.

Relative to Saving Banks in New-York. Ordered to a third reading.

Authorizing the Mariposa Company to issue preferred stock.

THE CENTRAL RAILROAD BILL.

The Central Railroad Bill was then taken up for consideration.

Mr. ANGEL moved to amend by allowing the company to charge two and a half cents per mile, way fare.

Mr. FOLGER moved to amend by removing from all other railroads in the State all restrictions as to way fare, except that imposed by the general law of 1850.

Mr. ANGEL said that the general law limited the fare to three cents per mile, except on the Central and Hudson River roads. The Central is limited to two cents per mile, and the Hudson River is also limited to two cents, except during the close of navigation, when the company are allowed to charge two and a half cents per mile. He was opposed to the amendment, because, among other reasons, it has not been asked for.

Mr. MUNGER said that the restrictions on these two companies were imposed under special circumstances, and ought to be considered specially. The Hudson River Railroad Company has not asked for relief, and he thought it would be time enough to consider its claims when they are presented.

Mr. SHAFER said that the amendment was introduced for the purpose of embarassing the bill. Its advocate will not vote for the bill, even though his amendment should be adopted, nor will any other Senator of those who may vote for the amendment. Their object is to make the bill so offensive to those living along the Hudson River Railroad that they cannot vote for it.

Mr. FOLGER said that he was opposed to removing the restrictions from either road, but equal justice and right demanded that both roads should be treated alike. The Hudson River Railroad has competition on the right hand and on the left, but the Central Railroad has no competition on way business except the dull and slow canal; hence if favor is due to either it is chiefly to the Hudson River Railroad.

Messrs. ANDREWS and BAILEY also favored the amendment.

Mr. MUNGER said it was his intention to move at the proper time an amendment limiting the time during which the present restriction shall remain in operation.

Progress was then reported, and the bill was made the special order for to-morrow.

EVENING SESSION.

[The greatest portion of the remarks attributed to Senator FIELDS yesterday, on returning thanks for the successes to our arms, were made by Senator ANDERSON.]

Mr. COZANS introduced a petition for an appropriation of a thousand dollars to the Western Dispensary.

BILLS ORDERED TO A THIRD READING.

Reappropriating certain monies appropriated for the payment of awards made by the Canal Appropriation Bill, and for the building of a weigh-lock at Oswego.

For improving the navigation of the Hudson River from Waterford to Fort Edward.

The Rochester Armory Bill.

[The above, on motion of Mr. MUNGER, was amended, so as to appropriate thirty thousand dollars out of the appropriation of fifty thousand dollars for military purposes.]

Authorizing the consolidation of horse railway companies in Brooklyn.

Adjourned.

ASSEMBLY.

ALBANY, Tuesday, April 11.

BILLS PASSED.

To provide for a revision of the Supreme Court decisions by the Court of Appeals.

To amend the charter of the City of Brooklyn.

The State Charity Bill.

Mr. ROGERS moved to amend by giving $1,000 to the Utica Orphan Asylum.

Mr. VAN BUREN moved to insert $15,000 to the New-York Hospital.

Both amendment were lost and the bill passed.

Mr. PIKE, from the Select Committee, made a report relative to the charges of corruption in connection with the passage of the New-York Paid Fire Department Bill, submitting the testimony, and coming to the conclusion that as no specific charges had been made, no charge of fraud had been proved in connection with the measure.

The report was adopted, and the committee discharged.

Mr. VAN BUREN, by unanimous consent, offered a resolution for a joint meeting of the Senate and Assembly on Thursday evening, to receive the flags of returning regiments.

The resolution was unanimously adopted.

Mr. MCCONVILLE moved to suspend the order for the third reading of bills, for the purpose of going into Committee of the Whole on the Lexington-avenue Railroad Bill.

The motion was lost by 38 to 48.

Relative to the holders of unsecured bonds of the Erie Railroad.

To amend the act concerning passengers and vessels coming into the port of New-York.

To incorporate the Long Island Savings Bank of Brooklyn.

To incorporate the Washington and New-York Steam Transportation Company.

BILLS PASSED.

THE NEWEST AND BEST PATENT CRINOLINE
YET INVENTED.
THE BON-TON PATENT FLEXIBLE SPRING SKIRT.

This invention entirely dispenses with the old and disagreeable manner of fastening by gum, glue and rivets, and consists of a new and useful manner of securing the tapes and wires together by means of a braid passing under and through the tape, and through and round the covering of the wire, thereby forming a knot, rendering it the most perfect fastening yet discovered.

The wire used is made from the best refined watch spring steel, and by the peculiar manner of rolling produces the necessary flexibility, without sacrificing any of the strength which it is well known a single bar has over a plurality of bars covering the same surface.

The covering of the wire used in this skirt is a fine double thread cotton yarn, the tape a two-inch extra heavy solid edge; the pads, or covering of the ends of the bustle spring, are of the finest enameled kid; and with our new application for lacing the fronts, rendering the bustle springs when worn the same as a whole or continued springs, thereby keeping the front of the skirt fitting closely and neatly to the form.

We claim that for superiority of materials it is not excelled, and for beauty of shape and durability it has no equal.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

War news was very scarce yesterday; no battles nor rumors of battles burdened the wires; they were devoted to the more agreeable task of recording the heartfelt thanksgivings for the great victory and the prospect of an early, honorable and permanent peace. It seems quite strange to make up a TIMES without some news of conflict, but the change is happy and welcome, relief not only to the makers but to the readers of newspapers.

The President issued another important proclamation yesterday, claiming that our vessels of war in foreign ports shall no longer be subjected to restrictions as at present, but shall have the same rights and hospitalities which are extended to foreign men-of-war in the ports of the United States, and declaring that hereafter the cruisers of every nation shall receive the same treatment which in their ports they accord to ours.

A dispatch from Washington says that the State Department has grounds for believing that the British government will revoke the recognition of belligerent rights to the Confederacy, immediately on receipt of the President's proclamation closing the ports and declaring the blockade at an end.

All the hospitals of Richmond have been taken possession of by the military authorities, and are used for the care and comfort equally of the Federal and Confederate sick and wounded. A number of Confederate surgeons left in the city have been paroled to attend to the Confederate sick.

A severe fight with guerrillas took place on Monday, in Fairfax County, Va. The rebel troops were sent out by LEE after the evacuation of Richmond. Our soldiers defeated and dispersed them.

Letters from Goldsboro to April 7, just received at Washington, report that JOHNSTON was retreating toward Virginia, attempting to join LEE, and that SHERMAN was closely following him.

The churches of Richmond were opened last Sunday. In the Episcopal service, the prayer for the "President of the Confederate States" was changed to "all those in authority."

STATE LEGISLATURE.

In the Senate, the bills authorizing plank road and turnpike companies to charge additional fare; providing for the payment of certain extraordinary expenses of Brooklyn; incorporating the St. James Benevolent Society of Brooklyn; conferring additional powers on the Marshals of New-York; relative to the Marine Court of New-York; incorporating the Hicksville and Huntington Railroad Company, all were passed. The bill amending the Registry Law was passed by 19 to 11. The bill authorizing County Treasurers to receive taxes was passed. The Central Railroad Bill was then taken up for consideration, and after some debate, progress was reported, and the bill was made the special order for to-day.

In Assembly, bills to provide for a revision of the Supreme Court decisions by the Court of Appeals; to amend the charter of the City of Brooklyn, and the State Charity Bill, were passed. Mr. PITTS made a report relative to the charges of corruption in connection with the passage of the New-York Paid Fire Department Bill, submitting the testimony, and coming to the conclusion that, as no specific charges had been made, no charge of fraud had been proved in connection with the measure. The report was adopted. A resolution for a joint meeting of the Senate and Assembly on Thursday evening, to receive the flags of returning regiments, was unanimously adopted. Bills relative to the holders of unsecured bonds of the Erie Railroad; to amend the act concerning passengers and vessels coming into the port of New-York; to incorporate the Long Island Savings Bank of Brooklyn; and to incorporate the Huntington and New-York Steam Transportation Company, were passed.

GENERAL NEWS.

An unusually active inquiry (mainly for permanent investment) prevailed yesterday for the gold-bearing bonds of the Government, which advanced 1¼@1½ ℘ cent., and closed with a strong upward tendency. The bonds were extremely scarce, and much difficulty was experienced in executing orders for round sums, either through the Stock Boards or through the commission houses. The latter were decidedly more eager to buy than inclined to sell, at even the improved rates. A few speculative purchases were made, chiefly of the new 5-20s, and the 10-40 five per cents. The demand from buyers on foreign account was developing significantly, promising soon to absorb a large portion of the comparatively limited supply of the bonds in the market, and at rising figures. One or two leading foreign banking firms had their brokers busily employed in running from counting-room to counting-room on Wall-street, and endeavoring to purchase large lines, especially of the funded six per cents, at prevailing quotations; but, owing to the reduced supply available, their efforts were comparatively unsuccessful. The home demand for small sums was so respectable in the aggregate, and, withal, so urgent, that the commission houses were kept actively at work in filling the popular orders. All parties seemed to anticipate an early and marked appreciation in the market value of the bonds, which are now 4@6 ℘ cent. lower than at this time last year, even in the face of the recent decisive Union successes, implying unmistakably a speedy restoration of the national authority throughout the length and breadth of the Republic. The prompt effect of the news of these successes abroad will be a vast increase of foreign orders for the funded stock of our country. The immediate effect at home is to be seen in the steady augmentation of the sales of the 7-30 Currency Loan now in process of distribution. The subscriptions to this Loan opened this week with the high daily aggregate of $2,873,650, including 2,011 single orders for the $50 and $100 notes of this Loan. The amount subscribed yesterday reached $3,132,400, and there were 2,193 subscribers for $50 and $100 bonds.

We have Havana dates to the 5th by the Liberty. On the previous day the United States steamer Santiago de Cuba arrived from Charleston with the Assistant Secretary Fox, Messrs. WELLS, NICOLAY, FULTON, GREEN, FORBES and party. They propose making a short stay, and returning to be present at the ceremonies of the flag-raising on Fort Sumter on the 14th. The sentence has been delivered in the Arguelles case. It is reported that he is condemned to perpetual banishment from the island, nineteen years in the chain gang at Ceuta, Africa, and a fine of $50,000.

The aggregate value of the property destroyed in Richmond foots up $2,146,240. Imposing as these figures appear, they are far short of the truth, for the reason already stated, that real estate was before the war invariably assessed much below the value which it would have commanded in the market. Our list covers no more than the bricks and mortar.

Pernambuco advices state that the steamer Panama had arrived at that port, bringing the news of FLORES having taken possession of Montevideo. There was a grand procession and illumination in consequence.

The French steamer due at Bahia Feb. 28, went ashore thirty miles south of Bahia and became a wreck. The crew was saved, with the mails and specie. The wreck sold for 9,600 milreas, as she lay, with her cargo.

The great victory achieved by Gen. GRANT was celebrated by the people of Portsmouth, N. H., by clearing out the office of the States & Union, a bitter opposition sheet.

The new British Minister, Sir FREDERICK BRUCE, has reached Washington and taken possession of the Legation, but has not yet presented his credentials to the President.

The town elections in Essex County, N. J., show Union gains over last Fall. The Union men will have a majority in the County Board. In Elizabeth City the Democrats have triumphed.

The LELANDS, of the Metropolitan Hotel, are building an opera house at Saratoga, and will have it ready to open about the 1st of June.

Secretary SEWARD'S condition is said to be gradually improving, though he occasionally suffers much pain.

Gen. DANIEL ULLMAN was at Chicago on Monday, on his way to New-York.

LOCAL NEWS.

M. CARME, an eminent billiard artist, arrived from France a few days ago, and last night gave the people an opportunity of seeing some of the curiosities of the cue at Cooper Institute. He is certainly a most skillful and graceful player, both at the regular game and the fancy, or masse, shots, in which the laws of force and motion seem to be set at naught. M. CARME has issued a challenge for the champion cue, which must create no little interest among the professors and amateurs.

In continuation of the rejoicings over the great victories of the past week, a grand Te Deum service was held at Trinity Church yesterday, at 1 o'clock. An immense audience was present, and after a rendition of BOYCE'S grand composition by a large choir, Dr. VINTON addressed the assemblage on the topic of the hour, urging condign punishment for the leaders, but clemency for the rank and file. In the evening a salute of one hundred guns was fired at Union-square.

Honor is due to the ladies of Sharon Mansion, Bloomingdale, for their bravery, as well as patriotism, in firing twenty-five guns under the floating Stars and Stripes in honor of the surrender of Gen. LEE.

Produce and merchandise were in very moderate demand generally, yesterday. Flour and Corn were cheaper. Pork, Lard, Tallow, Cotton and Crude Petroleum were firmer. At the auction sale of captured Cotton, 3,000 bales were disposed of at from 15½c@25c. (in gold) ℘ lb. for ordinary to good middlings. The auction sales of dry goods were tolerably well attended, but the competition among buyers was not brisk, and prices ruled low. Of the best sales of the day were linen goods and ribbons, which went off at pretty fair rates. The freight market was quite dull.

At the Tobacco Exchange, yesterday, a meeting was held to consider and decide on the measures the trade deem necessary to protect their interest against the action of the government agents in relation to the captured tobacco. It was complained that the government proposes to send all the tobacco which may come into its possession to New-York, where it will be sold free of tax, while manufacturers here cannot use that which they purchase without paying a tax of 40 cents per pound. After some discussion, a committee of five was appointed to frame resolutions and report at an adjourned meeting to be held to-day.

The Live Stock Markets this week, have been but lightly stocked with all kinds of animals except veals, which are in good supply. The receipts of beef cattle this week are the lightest during any one week for a number of years past, not excepting the week during which the snow blockade was most effectual. Though the railroads are now in such condition as to bring animals directly through, western owners have failed to forward their cattle, fearing detention on the way, from the late breaks. Prices of beeves are about 1c. ℘ lb., dressed weight, higher than at the last market. Extras selling at 24c.@25c. ℘ lb; good 21c.@23c.; fair, 19c.@20c., and common 17c.@18c. Sheep are also in light supply and sell at an advance of ½c.@1d. ℘ lb., live weight. With other animals there is not as much change.

There was a further rise of 1½@1¾ ℘ cent. in Government Stocks yesterday, with a brisk market. The Railways were very buoyant in the forenoon, but partially reacted at the Second Board. Gold was 2 ℘ cent. higher than on Monday. Money usually easy. Last evening the gold market was not very active but particularly steady, opening and closing at 145¼.

What Shall be Done with Jeff. Davis?

We are going to hang the murderer of HARRY LAZARUS, a week from next Friday. Why? A young varlet born, haply, of a rag-picker in a back attic of Cow Bay, his swaddling clothes a ragged dish-clout, suckled in adulterated gin, weaned over an apple-stall, his first lessons the choicest phraseology of blasphemy and obscenity, knowing nothing that he had a soul, and witless of all distinction between himself and the street curs, save that the dogs bit him and he kicked the dogs, well grounded for his early years in the rudiments of picking and stealing, a pupil of Jack Sheppard at the Bowery Theatre, and in due course removed to the Benicia Boy's Finishing School—for aught we know BERNARD FRIBBY was guilty of all that, and now having brought his villainy to climax by getting "drunk as a lord," and idiotically killing the first man he ran against, the law has decided that it is high time he should be put out of the way, and this it is going to do.

But, go to now; don't touch a hair of JEFFERSON DAVIS. True, he spent long years in hatching treason against his country. True, he has spilled the heart's blood of four hundred thousand good and true men, who now lie stark and stiff under the sod. True, he has starved to death sixty thousand of our sons and brothers, with an accumulation of torment that beggars all that DANTE ever imagined of hell. But Mr. DAVIS is a gentleman. He fed on pap when a child. He went to West Point when a youth. He was sent to Congress when a man. He sat on velvet in Washington when revolving parricide. He walked on velvet in Richmond when murdering his myriads. As for hemp, therefore—vulgar hemp—don't speak of it in connection with Mr. JEFFERSON DAVIS.

We beg pardon of the Tribune—we shall speak of it. All this talk about "magnanimity in triumph" is excellent in its place; but when it comes to include the pardon of every rebel leader, of JEFF. DAVIS himself, we demur, we protest. Justice has borne enough from the humanitarianism of the day, without being subjected to this climax of mockery. It is doubtful whether JEFF. DAVIS will ever be captured. He is, probably, already in direct flight for Mexico, and it may be that he will reach that refuge, whatever the efforts of the Government to intercept him. But if he is caught he should be hung. If we let him go unhung, we must, in decency, abolish hanging altogether. If we give him the free pardon the Tribune asks for, we ought to open every prison door in the land, and reinaugurate the Government by a universal felons' jubilee.

The constitution of our fathers made treason a crime. The laws have affixed to that crime the punishment of death. With reason, because, as there can be no greater guilt than that of seeking to overthrow the state upon which the security and happiness of millions depend, so it can only be expiated by the greatest of punishments. It is true that there may be extenuating circumstances in this as in other crimes. Such circumstances might easily be pleaded by the great body of the Southern people who have engaged in this rebellion. Not only sound policy but common justice enjoins lenity toward them. But the crime of JEFF. DAVIS admits of no extenuation. He was the prime mover of the rebellion. Without him, probably it never would have taken an organized form at all. He was the head and front of the conspiracy that "precipitated the South into revolution," and he has ever since been the head and front of the confederacy that has battled against the Government. The responsibility for this colossal treason primarily attaches to him as principal. Whatever may be done to his accomplices, or to the accessories after the fact, be at least should suffer the extreme penalty of the law. But there is a reason even beyond the fact that he is the arch-traitor. JEFF. DAVIS is directly responsible for the starving of our prisoners. This infernal work was carried out in pursuance of a plan deliberately settled upon by him as Commander-in-Chief of the Confederate armies. It was not only a violation of the rules of war, but was a barbarity that was never before conceived of within the pale of human civilization. No educated man, who had not the spirit of a fiend, could have been capable of it. NANA SAHIB, the leader of the East India insurrection, is called a monster of the human species for suffering the Cawnpore massacre. But what was this butchery in hot blood of three or four hundred, in comparison with the cold-blooded murder, by slow starvation, of sixty thousand, perpetrated under the leader of the American rebellion?

Out upon magnanimity toward such a wretch. There are provocations, as we have read, at which "the soul of every God-created man flames wholly into one divine blaze of sacred wrath." Of such provocations never were there greater than the acts of JEFF. DAVIS. To endeavor to save him from retributive justice is to outrage every enlightened sentiment, every unperverted instinct. It is to undermine every sanction of human law, to sap every conservative principle of human government. There is no one thing which threatens such evils to our liberties as this substitution of mawkish sympathy for the virtuous indignation which foul guilt ought to excite. A shallow philanthropism has been growing rife which has already cankered the moral sense of the nation not a little. The old Achillean wrath against untrue men, the grim old Puritanic intolerance of the workers of iniquity, has been giving place to a sentimentality as impotent as it is passionless. It was this laxity that did more than all things else to encourage the Southern plotters of this rebellion. There had been, year after year, such a deal of sickly stuff vented about the wickedness of shedding human blood, and such a letting down of the old reverence for law and justice, that it was easily inferred that the very life of the nation might be taken with impunity. It was almost forgotten that there was such a thing as national authority, and treason stalked openly in the capitol. During the war, this same laxity of principle has been constantly prompting the sacrifice of authority by concessions to the rebels. Had it prevailed, JEFF. DAVIS would to-day have been our master, either in the Union or out. Nor will it now do to yield to this disposition. Authority needs still to be vindicated. The impoverishing, the maiming, the killing of tens of thousands of Southern men who were cajoled or forced into the rebellion by JEFF. DAVIS and his crew, does not in any way meet the demands of justice so far as he is concerned. Their sufferings do not atone for his treason. Nor will they be a memorial for our children of the enormity of the crime of treason. This can be secured only by a personal visitation upon the rebel chief himself, if he falls into our hands. To forgive his followers, will be noble and wise. To forgive JEFF. DAVIS himself, will be a miserable and most mischievous weakness.

A REVISAL OF BELLIGERENT RIGHTS PROPOSED BY THE PRESIDENT.—The President, having finished the immediate business in hand at Richmond, has turned his attention, on his return to Washington, to the question of the treatment meted out to United States vessels of war at foreign ports. Immunities have been denied to these vessels, under a pretext of neutrality, which are conceded, either by treaty, by public law, or by the comity of nations, to the vessels of every other Power. The President thinks the time has come when this should be revised. Otherwise, the foreign governments thus continuing to bear themselves toward us, will find their vessels subjected to precisely the same treatment in our ports. This fair and honest action might have been adopted, probably, with advantage at an earlier date. It is the readiest and least offensive way of putting it to a direct test whether the leading European Powers desire to put our war vessels much longer on a footing with the rebel pirates.

The Future of the Army of the Potomac.

The Army of the Potomac has now no enemy to fight. It will never again have an enemy to fight in Virginia. It has fought its last great battle. As one of the great organized armies of the nation, it must soon, we suppose, cease to exist as a military force. The future must develop its uses and its history. A part of it will undoubtedly be retained for some time in Virginia; but with all the strategic positions, the military lines and cities of the State in our hands, fifty thousand men could maintain peace in any contingency and repel any foe.

We suppose that in Virginia, including all our forces in the western and southwestern sections of the State, in the Shenandoah Valley, in the eastern and southern sections, we have over two hundred thousand troops, of all arms. We have thus the immense aggregate of one hundred and fifty thousand soldiers who can now be spared from the State of Virginia. None of them are needed to operate against JOHNSTON—for SHERMAN is abundantly able to make any disposition of him and his piebald army that may have been foreordained. If any part of them should be employed against JOHNSTON—which we do not consider at all likely—it will merely be for the purpose of inducing the rebel leader to surrender at once, without waste of blood.

We suppose that the Army of the Potomac will be divided up by the Lieutenant-General into bodies of some magnitude, and sent to occupy and garrison for a time the various important positions in Virginia, the Carolinas and Georgia; and the army of SHERMAN will, for a period, find like employment.

SHERMAN'S great marches from November to April proved to us that the rebels have no army, and no material for an army, in the State of Georgia; that they have no army and no material for an army, in the State of South Carolina; that, excluding JOHNSTON, they have no army, and no material for an army, in North Carolina; and we know that they have no army, and, since LEE'S men are all under parole, no material for an army, in Virginia. We know that, beside the garrison at Mobile, the rebels have no troops or military material in Alabama; they have none in Mississippi; they have none anywhere in Tennessee. KIRBY SMITH has a good many men west of the Mississippi; but, we should like to know, if, under present circumstances, they propose to fight for the defunct Southern Confederacy.

Thus it is almost impossible that we should have any more fighting of any consequence on this side of the Mississippi River. LEE'S men will all go home, in accordance with the terms of Gen. GRANT; but even if they were not under parole, we may be very sure that they will fight no more.

Thus, in the future, the Army of the Potomac and the army of SHERMAN, will be employed mainly as conservators of peace in the South. The term of service of a good number will expire before the close of this year; and of a very large number before the close of next year. If government finds it has absolutely no use for the men, it can disband at its pleasure.

The Military as Distinct from the Political Power of the Late Confederacy.

In leaving the peace negotiations, which were brought to so successful an issue on Sunday last, in the hands of Lieut.-Gen. GRANT, a variety of perplexing issues were avoided. The cumbrous and dubious phrases of diplomacy became unnecessary, and the national authorities were spared the unsavory task of covenanting with the political leaders of the rebellion. The status of the Confederacy came under review neither in the proposals which the Lieutenant-General felt himself empowered to make, nor in the unreluctant acceptance of these proposals by LEE. The offer of terms made by Gen. GRANT, as completely ignored the political conspiracy and its originators as if the agreement had involved the surrender of a force of Indian rangers on the Texan frontier. DAVIS, BENJAMIN, TOOMBS, COBB, MASON and SLIDELL, and the prime instigators of the rebellion, became of as little account in settling the compact by which the power of the rebellion was surrendered, as if they had been so many English or French speculators, building rams under neutral flags for the destruction of our commerce.

There is in this mode of perfecting the victory won by our troops, far more than the mere empty gratification of national pride. There is a practical assurance given to the outside world that this soi disant government, to which virtual recognition abroad has been extended for four years, at the instance of the leading Powers of Europe, had become too contemptible a thing in the crisis of the conflict, to be even so much as named by its own military agents. So loosely has it held the reins of authority or of confidence over its subjects, that at the moment, of all others, when its foreign worshipers, at least, must have expected that its voice would have been heard either in protest or beseeching, it is allowed to doff its pilfered toggery under cover of darkness and sneak away to some infamous retreat, with nothing but the silent scorn of its victims for a benediction.

There are, probably, few things in national history likely to prove more memorable than this inglorious disappearance of a "Power" which has been coddled in imperial and diplomatic circles, and bepuffed by hundreds of hireling presses in Europe, till it had come almost to bursting with insolence. Even more wonderful still must it appear to the future political student, that an imposture so flagrant as DAVIS' combination has proved to be, should have dug its way so deep into the pockets of the keen and greedy speculators of Lombard-street. Men will marvel, as they read hereafter, of millions upon millions in British stuffs, British arms and British vessels-of-war, and of millions more in British gold, having been sunk in four twelvemonths of speculation, having no other basis to rest upon than the promises of a junta of political gamblers, who commenced their career by acts of wholesale thieving, and now end it by a flight which, at best, can only end in a ticket-of-leave existence on the outskirts of civilization.

GRANT, moreover, in making the peace negotiations primarily a military question, succeeded, with admirable skill, in drawing that clear line of distinction which the loyal people of the United States have always hoped to see drawn, between the criminal instigators of the rebellion, and the mistaken men who were dragged by the resistless influence of social ties, and the assumed rights of individual States, into an open conflict with the national authority. To the former class, as clearly belong DAVIS, BENJAMIN, SLIDELL, TOOMBS, and their political gang, as do LEE, LONGSTREET, EWELL, JOHNSTON, and (the late) "Stonewall" JACKSON, to the latter. In a military negotiation alone, could such a distinction be properly made. And GRANT'S method so effectually covers the ground which the loyal opinion of the country had staked out to mark the limits of the amnesty, that the supplementary political task of completing a general measure of pacification, is already simplified to a degree beyond all public anticipation.

In this simplifying process, it is important to notice that Gen. LEE himself has lent no (apparently) reluctant aid. "I cannot," said he in his second note to Gen. GRANT, "meet you with a view to surrender the Army of Northern Virginia, but as far as your proposition may affect the Confederate States forces under my command, and tend to the restoration of peace, I should be pleased to meet you." Herein we have a most pointed assurance, not only that LEE looked directly to the disbandment of the whole Confederate Army, but that he recognized the military as thenceforth distinct altogether from what remained of the political power of the Confederacy. To this complexion it was Gen. GRANT'S aim to bring his late antagonist, and the result forms the crowning point of his matchless series of successes.

THE NEWS OF THE VICTORIES IN EUROPE.—The Inman steamer, City of Dublin, which left on a special voyage for Liverpool on Monday, carrying thither the news of LEE'S surrender, will doubtless reach Queenstown by Thursday, the 20th, if she have fair weather. She will easily run ahead of the Portland steamer, which left on Saturday, and which calls at Londonderry. And as she is light-freighted, and has a special mission in hand, it is not improbable that she may make better time even than the Australasian. The latter vessel had the start by five days and several hours, and carried out the news of the evacuation of Richmond and Petersburgh. The difference in the time of their arrival on the other side will just be sufficient to enable the British rebel organs to found some new theory on the flight of the "Confederates" from their capital, and prove to the sagacious crowd of "sympathizers" that the movement is one originating in the highest kind of high strategy, and opening up—as DAVIS' late local organ put it, by anticipation—"new hopes for the independence of the South." The bulletins of the City of Dublin's news will spoil no end of this sort of newspaper strategy. Even the London Times will be at considerable loss to prove to the moneyed and commercial classes of the United Kingdom that all its predictions are exactly fulfilled. Another cotton loan will hardly be in order for some time, we reckon.

OUTLETS FOR CITY TRAVEL—COOL REQUEST.—One of the large mail steamship companies asks the Common Council to reconsider their resolution to reopen the Canal-street Ferry to Hoboken, on the ground that to do so would injure its business. What if it does?—which we do not believe however. The means of exit from the lower part of this over-crowded island need multiplying ten fold rather than diminishing. The loss of the Canal-street Ferry has been long and bitterly felt by thousands at both sides of the route. The request of the company, in these circumstances, is scarcely decent, and we urge on the Council that it be not listened to for one moment. Until the facilities for auburban travel are vastly increased and improved, the great body of citizens who have but moderate means to depend upon, must continue to be victimized by the extortionate class of landlords. Cheap, speedy and regular means of conveyance to and from the suburban districts, is the only remedy for this growing and intolerable evil. We must see to it, then, that the plea of commercial convenience, nor any other plea, shall interfere with the improvement and extension of our city lines of travel either by land or water.

THE SOUTHERN PORTS—THE SOVEREIGN RIGHTS OF THE UNITED STATES.—The meaning of the President's proclamation in regard to the blockade of certain Southern ports, which we published yesterday, is, perhaps, only made fully intelligible by referring to an intimation received from several of the leading Powers of Europe, shortly after the outbreak of the war. That intimation was to the effect that, while an effective blockade would be respected, our claim to exercise legal authority over the ports blockaded would be ignored. The President, in a quiet and unostentatious way, has resolved to put this matter right at once. He claims that we have some sovereign rights as an independent Power; and in declaring anew what ports of the South are open and what ports are closed, he will bring the existence of these sovereign rights to the test. This is all right.

Obituary.

MARY H. C. BOOTH, the poetess, died in this city yesterday morning. She had long been a sufferer, and for several years has lived in Switzerland, the rarefied air of an elevated region being grateful to her. Some of the most touching and inspiring words of cheer which have come over to us during the war, have borne her name. A small collection of her poems was printed at Zurich in a quaint little volume. Her last work was the correction of a complete edition, which APPLETONS' has in press, elegantly illustrated by WEBB.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

Dispatches to the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Tuesday, April 11.

THE PROCLAMATION CLOSING SOUTHERN PORTS.

The proclamation in reference to the closing of Southern ports is in accordance with a law passed as early as 1861. It was then understood, however, that while foreign powers would respect the effective blockade of these ports, a claim to exercise legal authority over them as over other ports of the United States, would not be respected. It is believed that the time has come, however, when the United States Government can claim to exercise that legal authority over all the ports, whether blockaded or not, which belongs to every independent sovereign power. A sufficient number of Southern ports is left open for legitimate trade; and those now proclaimed closed will, it is presumed, be reopened after a time. Meanwhile blockade-running is likely to be effectively ended. The issuing of this proclamation is understood to have been the business upon which Secretary SEWARD was about to visit City Point to confer with the President last week.

"If Any Man Hauls Down that Flag, Shoot Him on the Spot."

PORTLAND, Me., Tuesday, April 11.

Superintendent LATHAM, of the Grand Trunk Railroad, who tore a flag from a train yesterday, was waited upon by a quiet mob to-day, and conducted through the city, dressed in soldier's uniform, and carrying a flag, which he was obliged to salute. He was also obliged to make patriotic speeches. Finally, the flag was nailed to his house.

The Seven-Thirty Loan.

PHILADELPHIA, Tuesday, April 11.

JAY COOKE reports the sale of the Seven-thirty Loan, to-day, at $3,132,400. The largest Western subscription was $150,000 from Cleveland, and the largest Eastern subscriptions were $100,000 from the First National Bank of Westchester, Penn., $200,000 from Boston, and $300,000 from New-York. There were also 2,193 individual subscriptions of $50 and $100.

Mosby's Guerrillas.

PHILADELPHIA, Tuesday, April 11.

The following is a special dispatch to the Bulletin:

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, April 11.

An engagement with MOSBY'S guerrillas took place yesterday, fourteen miles from this city. The guerrillas were badly beaten.

The New British Minister.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, April 11.

The new British Minister has reached Washington and taken possession of the Legation, but has not yet presented his credentials to the President.

The Condition of Secretary Seward.

Exempt from Duty.

The following letter from the Collector of the Port contains valuable information:

CUSTOM HOUSE, NEW-YORK,
COLLECTOR'S OFFICE, April 10, 1865.

SIRS: In reply to your communication dated 7th instant, I have to say that by virtue of the act of Congress, passed March 3, 1865, commissions, transportation, shipping, and other like charges, including Consul certificate, are exempt from duty, although appearing on the invoice, they need not therefore be embraced in the entry. This provision of law takes effect only on importations made on and after the 1st instant. Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,
S. DRAPER, Collector.

MESSRS. BUTLER & PITKIN,
No. 356 Broadway.

Letter from Hon. Henry S. Foote—Explanation of His Position.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I am duly grateful, I assure you, for the courtesy exercised by you in republishing my vindicatory card in the Herald, according to request. This is no time for controversy, and I am certainly not in the humor for controversial discussion with any human being, or upon any subject whatever. My heart is intensely agonized over the sufferings of my countrymen, both North and South, and the general destruction, in recent battles, of some of my nearest kindred and dearest friends. But, as reputation and personal honor are about all that is now left to me, will you be good enough to allow me to publish a few lines in your widely-circulating journal, in response to one or two remarks in your editorial of this morning, in which you have done me, as I cannot but believe, unintentional injustice. You speak of me as having fled from the Richmond Government. On the contrary, I came openly, upon full notice, and avowedly for the purpose of endeavoring to facilitate peace arrangements alone.

You describe me as having been expelled from the Confederate Congress. I voluntarily abdicated my seat in that body at least two months before the adoption of the resolution of expulsion, because, as I stated at the time, I looked upon the legislative body with which I found myself connected, as corrupt, imbecile and servile, and because my associates, after fastening upon the South an irresponsible military despotism, obstinately refused to take any steps for the restoration of peace; when I plainly saw and forewarned them that great military calamities were impending, which, unless averted by timely concessions to the Federal Government, must inevitably result in the wide spread ruin which is now being experienced. The vote of expulsion, properly considered, is only a proof that in mind, in attachments, in habits of life, and in character, there was not the smallest resemblance or affinity between myself and the majority of those who participated in this impotent and dastardly act of malevolence. You charge me with eccentricity. I have to say upon this point only this: My eccentricity as a politician, if indeed I am eccentric, consists in my having, in 1850, sustained the compromise measures of that period, in opposition to extremists alike of the North and the South; in having steadily adhered to the great principle of non-intervention embodied in those measures from that period to the present moment; in having resolutely opposed all attempts to renew sectional agitation; in having resisted the adoption of the Kansas-Nebraska Bill; the Lecompton Constitution; the attempts to reopen the African slave-trade; the introduction of a non-intervention plank in the Democratic Presidential Platform of 1860; the proposition to break up the Federal Union because of Mr. LINCOLN'S election in the mode recognized by the Constitution; in opposing the secession movement until civil war was already raging and the Southern States had been already invaded; in opposing all attempts by the Confederate authorities to punish Union men for the conscientious entertainment of Union sentiments; in opposing confiscation, conscription, and the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus; in exposing and aiding in the defeat of Mr. DAVIS' effort to establish a despotism in the South; in originating, from time to time, and pressing earnestly the sending of propositions of peace to Washington; in interposing fearlessly to prevent Union prisoners of war from being starved to death by an inhuman Commissary-General; and, finally, in abandoning all connection with the Confederate cause when I saw that a longer association there with would subject my character, both as a public and private man, to lasting dishonor. If this is what is meant by eccentricity, I must say I glory in being regarded as eccentric, as I feel that my whole course has been in harmony with principle, and that I have done nothing at any time of which either a gentleman or patriot ought to be ashamed.

I have the honor to be, respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
H. S. FOOTE.

Ovation to Rebel Leaders.

To the Editor of the Times:

One of your correspondents proposes an ovation in this city to the rebel Gen. LEE. This is surely in the progressive spirit of the age. It is far ahead of the requirements of the Christian religion. But let us go further. Let us also give an "ovation" to the other chieftains, who presided over and dispensed "Southern hospitality" to our sons and brothers in Libby prison, at Andersonville, and at Salisbury. I am not sure that all of them, like LEE, had been educated and fed at the nation's expense at West Point, and had, like him, taken an oath before Almighty God to support the Constitution, but they are at least of the "chivalry" and of the "Sunny South."

ZOUAVE.

Amusements.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—A brilliant and crowded audience greeted Mr. MARETZEK last evening, when he took his benefit. The programme opened with "Il Poliuto" and closed with an act from "La Forza del Destino." In the first-named work, both Signor MASSIMILLIANA and Mme. ZUCCHI are heard at their best. The gentleman, indeed, can hardly be seen to greater advantage. Although a little under the weather he sang with remarkable spirit. Signor BELLINI contributed very handsomely to the pleasure of a thoroughly agreeable evening, and Mme. ZUCCHI was admirable.

Mr. MARETZEK was called before the curtain at the end of the second act, and was endowed with a bouquet to which was attached an envelope containg a very considerable sum of money. When appreciation takes this practical form it leaves nothing to be desired.

DRAMATIC MATINEE.—There will be a grand dramatic matinée to-day at the Academy of Music, in aid of the Theatrical Mechanics' Association. Some of the best artists in New-York assist on the occasion.

WALLACK'S THEATRE.—Miss IONE BURKE, a rising and popular actress, will take her first benefit here to-night, when BUCKSTONE'S comedy of "Leap Year" will be performed, with a fine cast.

IRVING HALL.—Mlle. HELENE DE KATOW and Mr. JAMES M. WEELI will give a grand concert at Irving Hall to-night, assisted by other artists of Mr. MAX STRAKOSCH'S company. Mr. WEELI intends playing several new morceaux.

FUNERAL OF GEN. WINTHROP.—The Twelfth Regiment, N. G. S. N. Y., Col. WM. G. WARD, will form a portion of the escort to the remains of Brig.-Gen. F. WINTHROP. The funeral takes place to-day. The members of the Twelfth Regiment are ordered to report at their armory at 1 P. M., precisely.

Raw, Blustering Weather, and the varying temperature of the season, are rapidly producing Colds, Coughs and Pulmonary Affection of all kinds. Persons with weak lungs should now be especially careful; and what may seem trifling coughs and colds ought to have immediate attention. The careless indifference which waits for "a cold to go as it came," in many cases results in laying the seeds of consumption. For such neglect of one's health there is no excuse, as Dr. D. JAYNE'S EXPECTORANT can be readily procured, and is the standard remedy for all Coughs, Colds and Pulmonary Affections, its long established reputation being a guarantee of its efficacy. Sold by all druggists.

The Weekly Play Bill.
THE BEST LITERARY, ARTISTIC, THEATRICAL AND MUSICAL JOURNAL IN THE COUNTRY.
SUBSCRIPTION.....$1 50 PER ANNUM.
SINGLE COPIES.....3 CENTS EACH.

The third number of the WEEKLY PLAY BILL is now ready.

It is universally admitted to be the wittiest, spiciest and cheapest journal in the Union.

It is a foe to humbug and cant; has the courage to speak the truth, and handles impostures of every kind without gloves.

It has other features which give it a distinctive character. Though published in New-York, it is as much the organ of the literary, artistic and fashionable circles of the other great civic communities of the Union as it is of the metropolis. A section of its space is devoted to Philadelphia and another to Boston—correspondents specially engaged for the purpose sending forward all that transpires of an interesting character in both cities up to the hour of publication.

Besides its biographies of American Artists, and the Fashionable and other Gossip of the Week, it contains original Poetry, an interesting Story, and a carefully prepared record of all the Literary, Artistic, Theatrical and Musical events of interest occurring in the two hemispheres.

One of the objects of the WEEKLY PLAY BILL being to aid in developing the poetic and literary talent of the country, it will pay liberally for such contributions as it may think worthy of a place in its columns. In order the better to carry out its views, it offers the following PRIZES to literary competitors:

One thousand dollars for the best Humorous Story, making 400 pages of ordinary novel size.

Two hundred dollars for the best Satirical Poem of 1,000 or more lines on the Follies of the Day.

Both Story and Poem must be sent in to the editor before the 1st of September next.

Advertisements for the WEEKLY PLAY BILL should be forwarded to the office, corner of Fulton and Nassau sts., before the Saturday preceding the day of of publication, (Wednesday.)

Perry's Moth and Freckle Lotion.
Chloasma, or Mothpatch, (also called Liverspot,) and Lentigo or Freckles, are often very annoying, particularly to ladies of light complexion, for the discolored spots show more plainly on the face of a blonde than of a brunette; but they greatly mar the beauty of either, and any preparation that will effectually remove them WITHOUT INJURING THE TEXTURE OR COLOR OF THE SKIN, is certainly a desideratum. Dr. B. C. PERRY, who has made diseases of the skin a specialty, has discovered a remedy for these obnoxious orations, which is at once prompt, infallible and harmless.

DYSPEPSIA.

DYSPEPSIA.
* * * * * * * *
The proprietors of ROMAINE'S CRIMEAN BITTERS desire to rest their claims to public favor upon their merits alone, and instead of incredible assertions of marvelous cures by which an ephemeral popularity is sometimes attained, submit as evidence of the high estimation in which they are held by medical men and others, who have applied the test of practical experience, a few of the testimonials voluntarily rendered to their merits by SURGEONS UNITED STATES ARMY, and persons whose intelligence and respectability will inspire confidence wherever they are known.

TONIC AND RESTORATIVE.
Dr. Janeway, Surgeon in charge of United States General Hospital, Newark, N. J., says: "I experienced very much benefit from the use of your Bitters, after a severe attack of typhoid fever, and was enabled to resume my duties in a much shorter time than I expected after so severe an illness. My appetite was restored, and Digestive Organs resumed their functions quickly. An article prepared so carefully as it is, and from so MANY VALUABLE MEDICINES, can not, in my opinion, fail to do good when properly used."

DYSPEPSIA.
From Hon. Robert Morris, of Kentucky, so extensively known to the MASONIC FRATERNITY of the United States:
NEW-YORK, July 15, 1864.
DEAR SIRS: I have lived in the Southern States—much of the time in Mississippi—for more than twenty years, and have had my share of those complaints that affect the liver and produce Dyspepsia. This has rendered a regular use of tonics a medical necessity to me, and I am familiar with the action of all the standard "bitters" of the day. In my opinion none of them is so efficacious in Congestion of the Liver and Dyspepsia as Crimean Bitters. I say this after a fair trial upon my own system and upon others to whom I have recommended them. I believe if they were freely used by persons whose systems are enervated, they would relieve and eventually cure a large proportion of such cases.
* * * * * * * *
From Major E. W. WELLS, U. S. A., formerly attached to the staff of Major-Gen. FREMONT:
NEW-YORK, Sept. 20, 1861.
DEAR SIRS: "Exposure to the vicissitudes of change of water and diet during my military services under Gen. FREMONT, produced Dyspepsia in some of its worst features, which seriously affected my health, as well as at intervals disabling me from active duty. A friend recommended Crimean Bitters as a remedy, and I am happy to make the acknowledgment to you that your Bitters effected an immediate cure of the malady, and that I am now in the enjoyment of my usual health."
* * * * * * * *
Hon. J. A. McDOUGALL, U. S. Senator, of California, says: "Your Crimean Bitters are excellent for digestion, correcting diarrhea, nausea, irritation of the stomach, and the creation of a wholesome appetite. They pleasantly exhilarate, but followed by no stupefying reaction. They are the best bitters I have ever used."
* * * * * * * *
G. W. PLATT, Esq., Assistant Assessor U. S. Internal Revenue, Fourth District, New-York, says: "My wife has been a dyspeptic for years. The use of your Crimean Bitters has nearly restored her usual strength and appetite. They are indispensable to her. Please send me a further supply."
* * * * * * * *
JOHN JACKSON, Esq., Editor of Rahway Register, says: "More than one member of my family, beside myself, can attest, that as a tonic and prompt rectifier of the digestive organs of the stomach, your Bitters have no equal, nor have I met with a single individual who is not enthusiastic in their praise."
* * * * * * * *
Col. JOHN R. CROCKET, late Quartermaster U. S. A., in a letter dated Newark, N. J., says: "The effect of the Crimean Bitters has been to restore strength to my digestive organs, which had been impaired for a few years past, causing Nausea, Colic, Flatulence, and other unpleasant consequences. For Dyspepsia, it is the best medicine I have ever used."

OF THE MOST COMPLICATED DISEASES OF THE ORGANS OF SIGHT,
HEARING, AS WELL AS CHRONIC CATARRH,
DISEASED THROAT,
AND ANY DISEASE WHERE THE MUCOUS MEMBRANE IS DESTROYED
OR IMPAIRED.

As the meaning of the name given by Dr. VON EISENBERG to his new Invention may not be easily comprehended, we (the New-York Evening Express) give the following explanation of its uses for the better understanding of the general sufferer:

ÆSTHETICO-NEURALGICON

is derived from the Greek word Aisoptikos, which, in its literal acceptation, signifies pertaining to the senses the theory or philosophy of tastes, the science of sensations, or that which explains the cause of mental pain or pleasure. Neuralgicon is a compound of the two Greek words, neuron, a nerve, and logos, a discourse with the sufferecon. The meaning conveyed by the term is, that it is an instrument or machine devised on philosophical principles with a thorough knowledge of the nervous system.

In describing the matter more at length to show its uses, that it might be better understood by the general sufferer, we give a simpler explanation. The nervous system is the source of many diseases.

All physicians admit this, and all profess at least to be able to apply a remedy. The Allopathic, Homœopathic and Hydropathic, by prescribing opiates, anodynes, &c., may, and do, alleviate the pain arising from impaired or diseased nerves, but this does not restore the nerve. It is only temporary relief—a relief, too, to some one nerve at the expense of the entire system. The Æsthetico-Neuralgicon of Dr. VON EISENBERG not merely allays the irritation, but restores the nerve to its normal condition. The Doctor's theory is, that each nerve has a specific office, and has its own peculiar susceptibility. Thus, for example, the nerve of vision is insensible to touch, and, on the other hand, the nerve of touch is insensible to light, and so on through the whole system. The great excellence of this æsthetical instrument is, that it can be applied not on guess-work principles, which are no principles at all, but that it can be applied with accuracy and certainty to any nerve or nerves that are weakened or impaired, to the different nerves of motion, or sensation, to the eye, the ear, or the touch, as in paralysis.

To those, therefore, who are in any way afflicted with loss of sight or hearing, with catarrh, bronchitis, chest or lung diseases, we earnestly suggest a visit to the consulting apartments of Dr. VON EISENBERG. There he will be speedily made to know the possibility of a cure in even complicated cases, and thus be encouraged to proceed until he is discharged thoroughly renovated and cured.

The reader, on perusing what we have here presented him, touching the beauty, complexity, costliness, touching the various uses to which the Æsthetico-Neuralgicon can be applied, may be induced to believe that in the warmth of our commendations we have exceeded the sober truth as to its utility; but we know we have not exceeded the limits of common sense in our description. We care not how prejudiced any one may be against it, he cannot, when it is thoroughly explained to him—and that the inventor is prepared to do at any time to those who call upon him—but be convinced it is all that is claimed for it, namely, the most perfect mechanical contrivance for the exhibition of spiritualized and etherealized medical preparations now in existence. He will even confess, if he be justly minded, that in many respects it is destined to bring about an entire revolution in certain departments of science, and that it is what its inventor, with reason holds, an apparatus that will do more to mitigate human suffering than anything that in all the past to this time, has been afforded to the world.

NEW TESTIMONIALS.
Catarrh Cured.
LINCOLN HOSPITAL, WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 1.
I have been for several years past afflicted with chronic dry catarrh, which a year ago became so bad that my hearing threatened to leave me altogether. My throa became greatly affected. There was a constant roaring in my head, which, with the other symptoms, was always greatly aggravated by the slightest "cold." Dr. Von Eisenberg commenced treating me a year ago, and has continued to treat me at long intervals since. I am happy to state that the treatment of Dr. Von Eisenberg has produced a constant improvement, so that my hearing is almost perfectly restored. My nostrils are free from inflammation, and my general health is so much improved that I look for its permanent restoration, and that speedily, as a fixed fact. I do cheerfully recommend all persons suffering from catarrhal affections to apply to Dr. Von Eisenberg for treatment, feeling assured that with proper opportunity he will effect a cure.
JAMES T. FERRIE, Captain U. S. A.

I was completely deaf for several years, and hearing of Dr. Von Eisenberg's great reputation in restoring the hearing, I called on him, and in one operation, to my great astonishment and excessive pleasure, I now hear perfectly well. I came into the Doctor perfectly deaf, and hear as I never expected to do. This skill is unrivaled

AN EXTRAORDINARY RESTORATION OF SIGHT.
I, LAWRENCE GRENNA, of No. 188 East 36th-st., New-York City, have been suffering from blindness of the left eye for a considerable period. The eye was continually in a state of great inflammation, from which the good eye became affected, and, indeed, my general health was greatly injured by it. Hearing of Dr. Von Eisenberg's great reputation, and as everyone said mine was a hopeless case, I called on the Doctor, who, after examining me, undertook my case, and within a fortnight I found myself almost completely cured. It is now a month since I placed myself under Dr. Von Eisenberg's treatment. I am happy to be able to state that the inflammation is entirely gone, so that I see perfectly with both eyes, added to which I am in good health, a blessing I have not enjoyed since I was blind. I do conscientiously and gratefully swear to the above statement, in a Court of Justice at the City Hall of the City of New-York, the 10th day of October, 1864.
LAWRENCE GRENNA.
Sworn before me this 10th day of October, 1864,
C. GODFREY GUNTHER, Mayor.

THE ÆSTHETICO-NEURALGICON is now on exhibition at Dr. VON EISENBERG'S Consulting Rooms, No. 816 BROADWAY, near 13th-st.

TO ADVERTISERS.
THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE has a circulation larger than that of any other newspaper, and a large proportion of its subscribers take no other journal. The space in this sheet allotted to advertisements is necessarily limited, so that each has the advantage of being easily seen, and all are generally read with as much interest as news matter. There is—as those who have tried it know—no advertising medium in the country so cheap, because there is none so profitable to the advertiser. The paper circulates among the industrial and thrifty classes—the farmers, manufacturers, merchants and mechanics of the country—and is carefully read by their wives and daughters. It is safe to say that each advertisement in it is read every week by not less than half a million of the most intelligent of the people. He who makes his business, his merchandise or his manufactures known to this immense number, scattered all over the loyal States, cannot fail to do so to his own manifest and great advantage.
Advertisements on the fifth page are $1 50, and on the eighth page $1 a line. For this week's issue they must be handed in to-day.

Ten wells are now going down on the company's property, in the richest portion of the famous Sugar Creek Valley. There is room for 500 more.

The trustees will refrain from lengthy advertisement of the prospects of the SUGAR CREEK PETROLEUM COMPANY, and content themselves with pointing to the features which distinguish it from many enterprises of the day. THE STOCK IS NOT WATERED. The projectors depend for their profits solely on a RISE IN ITS MARKET PRICE.

But a few thousand shares will be sold, and these on the only honest basis, VIZ., AT THEIR PAR VALUE.

The company's property is worth more than the entire capital stock. The latter is so small, indeed, that even a ten-barrel well will pay regular monthly dividends. The Sugar Creek Wells are but half as expensive, and the oil is twice as valuable as the wells and oil either of Oil Creek or Cherry Run. Prospectuses and Maps can be obtained, and subscriptions effected, by application to CHARLES G. JUDSON, No. 84 Chambers-st; CHARLES GOULD, No. 52 Wall-st.; J. L. THANKSGIVING FOR VICTORY.

Grand Te Deum at Trinity Church—An Immense Concourse of People—A Superb and Solemn Ceremony—Address of Rev. Dr. Vinton—Salute at Union-square.

The rejoicings are by no means over. Again the city was draped with bunting, and again the chimes rang forth their silver notes of patriotic melody. The feature of yesterday's celebration was the ceremony at Trinity Church. From the hour when the first gun was fired at Sumter to this moment she has borne aloft the flag of the republic and remembered its defenders day and night. Memorable services of various natures and of grandeur have been held within the walls of this temple, but at no time has New-York so centred at Trinity as it did yesterday.

The occasion was as follows: On Monday several well-known gentlemen met at the office of Collector DRAPER, and, as was reported in the TIMES of yesterday, issued the following which was numerously signed and generally circulated.

"In view of the great events of April 9, 1865, which God has vouchsafed to the armies of the Union and the cause of constitutional liberty, the bankers, merchants, judges of the courts, lawyers, business men, and citizens generally, are invited to meet at Trinity church on Tuesday April 11, at 1 o'clock P. M., to join in the anthem Te Deum Laudamus."

As this is Passion WEEK the regular services at Trinity church are unusually well attended, and at the morning prayers the building was very nearly filled. In the course of the lesson read by Rev. Dr. OGILBY, occurs the following significant passage, on which the reverend gentleman dwelt with peculiar emphasis: (Daniel xi, 15.)

"So the king of the North shall come and cast up a mount and take the most fenced cities; and the arms of the South shall not withstand, neither his chosen people, neither shall there be any strength to withstand."

And again at the 40th verse of the same chapter it says:

"And at the time of the end, shall the king of the South push at him; and the king of the North shall come against him like a whirlwind, with chariots and with horsemen and with many ships; and he shall enter into the countries, and shall overflow and pass over."

At the termination of the morning service, the greater portion of the congregation took their departure. Eagerly seeking the vacated places were hundreds of people who crowded about the doors and gates, striving to obtain entrance. By half after eleven the entire church was filled, every available place occupied, the stairs to the pulpit even being taken by the more determined sex as places of vantage. Outside the throngs increased, and at a little after noonday the street was fairly blockaded by men and women, who vainly pushed and crowded, and struggled for even a look at the interior.

The courtesy of Dr. H. S. CUTLER, the efficient and cultured conductor of music at Trinity, enabled us to penetrate to the inner rooms, where were the officiating clergymen, their friends of the order, the choir proper, and the amateur volunteers. At 1 o'clock the vibrations of the large organ, played by Mr. DILLER, the assistant organist, announced the hour of service, and the procession was formed in the following order, begining with

THE CHOIR,

as follows: Masters Richard Coker, Ehrlick, Foedt, Pratt, Granden, Watson, Eilet, Boone, Riley, Tighe, Arthur, Gamble, Reitzle, Hunt, Stuyvesant, Coon, Busch; Knowles, Smith, Rayner, Gram, Weir, and Messrs. Wicks, Hill, Sweeney, Hilton, Meyers, Knowles, Giles, Potter, Fergurson, Aiken, Graham, Milroy; after whom were dressed in the vestments of their order, as follows: Rev. Dr. Francis Vinton, Rev. Dr. Haight, Rev. Dr. Ogilby, Rev. Dr. McVickar, Rev. J. H. Hopkins, Jr., Rev. Mr. Cook, Rev. Mr. Feltwell, Rev. Morgan Dix, Rector, Rev. Mr. Guion, Rev. Mr. Nobie, Rev. Mr. Peck, Rev. Dr. Barnard.

THE CLERGY,

As these gentlemen entered the chancel, the church presented a splendid sight. There sat or stood compacted a vast congregation of expectants, in whose ears yet rang the chiming of the bells, and who, with appetite sharpened by the occasion and organic performances of Mr. DILLER, waited anxiously for the coming feast. The chancel, beautifully lighted by the waxen tapers and fringed by the white robes of the clergy and choir, shone in the eyes of the people like a sacred place, and while every head was bowed, again the deep tones of the organ led their hearts upward in prayer. The scene was most impressive, and the total absence of decoration did much toward completing the solidity and grandeur of the occasion.

THE SERVICE

was initiated by Rev. Dr. OGILBY, who intoned from the Evening Prayer the sentences commencing, "The Lord is in holy temple, let all the earth keep silence before him;" and "O God, we have heard with our ears, and our fathers have declared unto us the noble works thou didst in their days and in the old time before them;" after which followed the Psalm of Praise and Thanksgiving, first given by the Doctor, and then rendered antiphonally by the choir, led by Master COKER. Rev. Dr. HAIGHT read the beautitudes from the 5th chapter of Matthew, and was followed by Rev. Dr. VINTON, who intoned the Suffrage, the Lord's Prayer, A General Thanksgiving, and the following prayer for the President of the United States and all others in authority:

"O Lord, our Heavenly Father, the high and mighty Ruler of the Universe, who dost from Thy throne behold all the dwellers upon earth; most heartily we beseech Thee with Thy favor to behold and bless Thy servant, the President of the United States, and all others in authority; and so replenish them with the grace of Thy Holy Spirit, that they may always incline to Thy will and walk in Thy way. Endow them plenteously with Heavenly gifts; grant them in health and prosperity long to live; and finally, after this life, to attain everlasting joy and felicity, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen."

The piece de resistance was then in order, The grand which was performed on this occasion, was written in the year 1750, by the celebrated composer and organist at Windsor Chapel, Dr. WILLIAM BOYCE, and is known as the "Boyce Te Deum in A." It is due to Dr. CUTLER to state that the superb rendition of this work by himself and choir was made wholly without rehearsal; in fact, the scores and parts were distributed for the first time some five minutes before the procession entered the chancel. The effect was indescribably grand.

Ranged on either side of the chancel, accompanied by the small organ at the right, the young gentlemen acquitted themselves of their duty to the entire satisfaction, not alone of the assemblage, but of the more cultivated critics, who listened with unfeigned delight. But, far beyond and above the mere æsthetic enjoyment of the moment was the deeper, purer sentiment of reverent thanksgiving which seemed to imbue the entire congregation—a congregation of strangers mainly to the place and to each other, drawn thither by an earnest desire to expressing, through the most fitting medium, their sincere gratitude for the great blessings of the past week, and petitioning humbly for a continuance of the same in the days to come.

At the conclusion of this magnificent service, the substantially as follows, from the pulpit:

We congratulate you, my friends and brethren, upon this assemblage for thanksgiving. We congratulate you upon the victories which have recently crowned the armies of the nation, upon the approaching days of glorious peace, and the ending of this most disastrous war. As a nation we have reason to be proud of and grateful to the noble men who have defended the country and upheld her laws and customs. We have indeed passed through a trying ordeal—an ordeal which has brought out and developed in our own people a stronger and more vigorous manhood and womanhood, and which has resulted in the triumphant establishment of the power and dignity of our government at the North and the South, the East and the West, forging a close and indissoluble chain of patriotism which shall for all time bind in dearest harmony the various sections of our country. What cause for gratitude have we to the Giver of all good, how constantly has he extended his loving hand unto us. We should thank him that we have been kept from the sin of idolatry, and that to no one man or chieftain belong the honors of these magnificent triumphs. We thank him for our Chief Magistrate, for his wisdom, his modesty, his firmness and his magnanimity. And now that we stand upon the threshold of peace, let us pray that those in authority may be gifted with grace to guide the future destinies of the nation. We should cherish the feelings kind and loving to our erring brethren, and while we look for the certain and condign punishment of the leaders of the great rebellion, toward those who were misguided we should exercise a forgiving and a lenient policy, remembering the words of the Beatitude read in our hearing, saying, "Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called the children of God;" and now, before we separate, let us each and all join in singing as with one voice

GLORIA IN EXCELSIS.

in which the choir will lead."

The full force of the organ then pealed forth the magnificent harmony, in which the choir and the congregation joined, producing a grand effect.

After the Rector, Rev. MORGAN DIX, D. D., had pronounced the benediction, Mr. DILLER, Dr. CUTLER'S assistant, played upon the large organ a selection of national airs, during which the audience slowly and reluctantly dispersed.

SALUTE AT UNION-SQUARE.

In pursuance of notification, a grand salute of two hundred guns was fired last night at Union-square. A blaze of light from the surrounding houses illumined the area, and thousands of people gathered to see the flash and hear the report of the wide-mouthed cannon. Great enthusiasm was manifested by the large and humorous crowd, and cheer after cheer filled the air as the names of GRANT, SHERMAN or SHERIDAN were mentioned.

BILLIARDS.

M. Carme at the Cooper Institute.

Mons. PIERRE CARME, formerly of Versailles and Paris, gave his first seance in the large hall of the Cooper Institute last evening, and notwithstanding the threatening state of the weather, he was greeted by an audience of nearly two thousand people, among which were many eminent citizens, including judges of the courts, leading bankers, lawyers, merchants, editors, etc., and a large delegation of ladies. M. CARME was assisted by M. PHELAN and Wm. GOLDTHWAITE. On introducing the Professor, Mr. GAVIT took occasion to observe the serious disadvantage M. CARME was laboring under in this exhibition. That he was an almost total stranger in the country, had only recently arrived from a sea-voyage, that the table, balls, machinery, etc., of the game was entirely new to him. Again, as in the case of all first appearances, he was considerably embarrassed with "the glare of the foot-lights." Therefore, if he should fail in some of his shots on the first attempt, under the existing circumstances, he trusted to receive their kind indulgence. The playing then commenced with a French three-ball game—fifty points up, between M. CARME and Mr. GOLDENWAITE, which was won by the former. After which M. CARME demonstrated the power of the masse and other intricacies of billiards in a series of about thirty shots, the most of which were made with wonderful accuracy, and showing the most astonishing control over the balls. Some of the demonstrations drew forth salvos of applause. After this Mr. GAVIT came forward and stated that he was now enabled to answer a query which had been repeatedly asked during the last few days, viz.: "What is the strength of M. CARME in a game of billiards." The reply to this was a letter from M. CARME to Mr. PHELAN, which he would now read.

NEW-YORK, April 11, 1865.

M. PHELAN—My Friend: Allow me, through you, to salute the billiard profession of America, in which country I have decided to fix my residence, and resume the vocation followed by me in France.

Will you do me the favor to announce, also, that I shall be most happy to play with any recognized first-class billiard artist in this country, if either or all of the following propositions meet with acceptance?

First—I will play with any American billiard player a French carom game, consisting of 250 points, on a carom table, second size, with balls 2 5-16 inches in diameter, for $1,000 a side.

Second—On same size and style of table, with same size balls, I will play any gentleman a four-ball carom game of 1,500 points, for $1,000 a side, provided the pushing stroke be omitted.

Third—Intending to become a member of the billiard profession in America, and aspiring to the highest honors, I hereby challenge the possessor of the champion cue for the custody of the same, and will play him for the usual stake, and in accordance with the rules governing such contests.

As evidence of my earnestness in making these propositions, I hereby deposit $1,000 in your hands, that you may, in my behalf, conclude all necessary arrangements.

In relation to my first two propositions, I beg to say that my only further reservations are, that in case of their acceptance, I shall be allowed a notice of ninety days, and that the games shall be played on a table manufactured by the firm of which you are a member. PIERRE CARME, Formerly Professor of Billiards at Versailles.

The evenings entertainment was concluded with the American four-ball game—push omitted—150 points between M. CARME and MICHAEL PHELAN. This game was short and brilliant, M. CARME making some beautiful shots, and winning the game by long odds.

This was undoubtedly one of the most brilliant and interesting billiard demonstrations which ever took place in this country. The character of the audience, the fine playing, the superior order observed, and all the features were of the most pleasing description.

M. CARME, assisted by Messrs. PHELAN and GOLDTHWAITE, will give one more exhibition at the same place, this evening, which, owing to his engagements in other cities, will be the last he can give in New-York for some time.

Col. TELLER, commanding the Fourth Regiment N. Y. S. N. G., had charge of the arrangements. Quite a large crowd assembled in the square, and the surrounding houses were gaily decorated with the national colors. The Mayor ordered the party complained of to refund the deposit and pay the money. The high tax on cigars was mentioned as one cause of the refusal to pay the workman.

FIENDISH ASSAULT ON SHIPBOARD — A MAN SHACKLED AND THEN CRUELLY BEATEN.—Early yesterday morning a man named THOMAS ANDERSON, Steward of the British bark Dalkeith, CRENAR, master, lying at the foot of North Third-street, E. D., applied at the Forty-fifth Precinct Station-house for protection, claiming that he was wrongfully held on board the bark. Shortly afterward Capt. CRENAR appeared, and showed the Sergeant in charge shipping papers to which ANDERSON'S name was attached. The officer then allowed the Captain to take his Steward away. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon, some citizens in the neighborhood heard cries of murder proceeding from the Dalkeith, and, on approaching her, saw a man double-ironed and covered with blood on her decks. This fact they reported to Sergeant MADDOX, of the Forty-fifth Precinct, who, with two officers, immediately boarded the ship. They demanded of the Captain to see the injured man, when he unlocked the state-room into which he had shoved him when he cried murder. The officers immediately recognized ANDERSON, although he was covered with blood, and the state-room presented the appearance of a slaughter-house. The Captain and his victim were both taken to the Station-house and then to Justice DAILY'S court. ANDERSON here deposed that this signature to the shipping paper was a forgery; that after he went on board the bark in the morning some dispute arose between himself and the cabin boy, when the Captain, who is a powerful man, manacled him, threw him into a state-room, and while in that helpless condition, kicked him in a most brutal manner in the head and face. Notwithstanding this, the man ANDERSON was taken back to the bark by Officer NICHOLSON, a detailed officer at Judge DAILY'S court; the Captain was also allowed to go on board, and a few minutes afterward the bark put to sea, bound, it is said, for Buenos Ayres.

An Alleged Visitor Sued for Board, and a Judgment Obtained.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT.

Before Judge Leonard and a Jury.

Frederick D. Winne vs. Marianne Baxter.—Yesterday a verdict of $300 was rendered by the jury in this case against the defendant, Miss Baxter. The testimony given on the trial was of a very conflicting nature. The plaintiff proved quite conclusively that the defendant had boarded in his family for a long time, and that she was indebted to him in the sum of $300. On the other side it was claimed that the lady defendant was a visitor; that she performed various services in the family during her residence there, such as taking care of children and looking after household affairs; that she never declined aiding the family of the plaintiff, except upon one or two occasions, when she thought the duties asked of her were of too menial a character. The Judge charged the jury that the questions were mainly those of fact for them to determine. If the defendant was there a visitor, and it was so understood by both the parties to the suit at the time, then the plaintiff could not recover; but if there was an express or implied agreement that the defendant was to pay a stipulated or any reasonable sum to the plaintiff for her board, then the plaintiff had a right to recover such reasonable sum as they might think fit to give him. Under this charge the jury rendered the verdict for $300, as above stated.

The Rights of Parties Under A Chattel Mortgage.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT.

Before Judge Peckham and a Jury.

Sarah A. Fairman vs. James C. Hazleton.—The plaintiff in the action brought this suit to recover the sum of $3,900, which she alleges is due to her from Mr. Hazleton under the following circumstances, namely: The wife of the defendant was, in the year 1859, the owner of a house and several lots surrounding it, at the well-known village of Riverdale, in Westchester County. In June of that year she leased it to the plaintiff for the term of ten months, or until April, 1860. In December of the same year, the plaintiff entered into a written agreement with defendant to take the premises in question for another year at $500 rent. None of the accruing rent was in the meantime paid, with the exception of $100. In order to secure the payment of the rent already due, and that which was to accrue by the terms of the lease, the plaintiff executed to the defendant a chattel mortgage of all her furniture and household utensils. In the Spring of 1860, the house at Riverdale was sold to a Mr. Lavis, of Brooklyn, and it is contended that from the 1st of May of that year, the last named person was entitled to all the rents and profits resulting therefrom. The plaintiff's property was subsequently sold under the mortgage, and as she contends, at a great sacrifice, and she now makes this claim against the defendant. It appeared that plaintiff had not paid but $100 during the time she had occupied the premises. At the conclusion of the testimony, Ex-Judge Slosson, on behalf of the defendant, asked for a nonsuit. The Court granted the motion, and in doing so said that the case was not by any means free from difficulties, there were some very important questions of law involved, and in order to give the parties an opportunity to test them, he would direct that the plaintiff might take it to the General Term in the first instance, and this without giving security.

For plaintiff, Mr. H. L. Clinton; for defendant, Ex-Judge Slosson and John H. Platt.

Implied Promises to Pay.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM.

Before Justice Barbour.

John McCaffie et al. vs. Alexander A. Radcliff.—The defendant, as agent for one Haskell, purchased from the plaintiff some $3,000 worth of cigars, which the said Haskell was to pay for; Haskell did not pay for the cigars, and plaintiff brought this action against the defendant on an implied promise to pay for the cigars in case Haskell should make default. A motion for a nonsuit was made and granted on the ground that defendant, if liable in any way, could only be held as a guarantor, and should have been proceeded against as such.

Criminal Business.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Before Recorder Hoffman.

Assistant District-Attorney Robert C. Hutchings for the people.

Bridget Sheridan was tried for petit larceny from the person. The complainant testified that she had gone to Washington Market to get some butter and while bargaining for what she wanted the prisoner came up and spoke to her; immediately afterward she missed her pocket-book, containing $4.

A detective officer, who is stationed at Washington Market on special duty, testified that he saw the prisoner enter the market, and, knowing her bad character, he followed her. The officer saw her approach the complainant, put her hand in her pocket, and take out the pocket book. He then followed her out of the market, arrested her, and found upon her the pocket-book and the money, which complainant immediately identified as her property. The jury found a verdict of guilty without leaving their seats. The prisoner stated to the Court that she found the pocket-book. His Honor said to her that five months ago she had found another pocket-book in the market, and had then been sent to the Island for three months. She was sent to the State Prison for two years and six months.

Julia Dugan was tried for receiving stolen goods.

Catherine McCormick testified that she was a daughter of Francis McCormick, the complainant in this case; that in the month of August, 1863, she took $40 from her father without his knowledge, which money she gave to the prisoner; witness testified that she had frequently stolen money from her father, and had given it to the prisoner.

Mary Agnes McCormick testified that she was the mother of the previous witness, and that the prisoner had admitted that she had received the money, but would pay it back; she had been paid back only $13 of the money that had been taken.

Francis McCormick testified that from what his wife had told him he believed himself to be the father of Catharine McCormick who had taken the money from him. Being further questioned by the court he said he had no doubt but that she was his daughter. He lost this money in August 1863, and charged the prisoner with receiving it from his child. Prisoner did not deny it and said she would repay it.

Hannah McNally, witness for the defence, testified that she knew Catharine McCormick, and had frequently been out with her to Sargum's, the skating pond and to other places. Catharine McCormick told witness that she often took money from her father, and that her mother knew about it; that she took it for her mother. She always had plenty of money with her and spent a great deal for confectionary and toys. Prisoner was acquitted.

Michael Cannovan a porter at the Fifth-avenue hotel, was tried for committing a rape upon Mary McBride a chambermaid in the same house. The complainant testified that the offence was committed in a house of assignation in Greene-street, where she was induced to go under pretence of seeing a friend. The details of the evidence are unfit for publication. The jury acquitted the prisoner of the charge of rape but found him guilty of an assault on the complainant.
